► 3 GOOD REASONS TO REGULARLY CHANGE YOUR CABIN FILTER

1. HEALTH

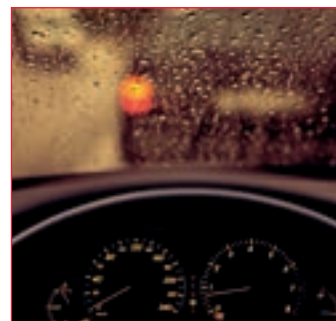

A good working cabin filter cleans the air entering the car, creating a healthier environment. It keeps dirt and allergens out, which is especially important for people suffering from allergies or asthma.

2. SECURITY

Cabin filters improve air circulation and reduce the amount of pollutants inside the car. This helps to keep the windows cleaner and prevent them from fogging. Especially in winter time, this can enhance visibility and improve safety.

3. ECONOMY

When the cabin filter is clear from dust and dirt, it helps to maximize the airflow in the A/C heating system. The result: a better performance, reduced fuel consumption and an extended life time of the car's heating, ventilation and air conditioning system.

Cabin filters keep the windows cleaner and prevent them from fogging.

► TIME FOR A CHANGE?

Car manufacturers recommend cabin filter replacement every 10,000 km or every year, whichever occurs sooner. If the car is frequently driven in a more demanding environment (heavy smog, dust), then the service interval may be shorter.

The symptoms listed can indicate that the cabin filter is due for replacement:

- Reduced air flow from the A/C heating system
- Reduced performance due to the A/C heating system drawing more power from the engine
- Increased cabin temperature due to reduced A/C heating system performance
- Irritation and allergic reactions caused by dust, pollen and other airborne pollutants
- Fogged windows and reduced visibility due to poor air circulation causing humidity

A dirty or cluttered cabin filter may affect your health, safety and ... budget.

That the air inside the cabin can be up to 6 times more polluted than the air outside the car?
